B2B Buyer Attraction Blueprint

The 5-pillar Google trust and digital discovery playbook for Indian manufacturers and MSMEs

THE CORE CHALLENGE: SILENT BUYER REJECTION

The 'Invisible Factory' trap

A procurement head searches your company on Google after receiving your quote. If they find no facility photos, no capacity data and no testing proof, you are quietly dropped from the shortlist. Nobody tells you why.

The 'Proof Leader' advantage

Factories that publicly show their machines, capacity and QC lab look like lower-risk suppliers. That trust is what wins direct, higher-margin orders instead of price-only bargaining.

THE 5 PILLARS OF FACTORY BUYER ATTRACTION

PILLAR	COMMON MISTAKE	WHAT TO DO INSTEAD
1. Google search trust	Unclaimed Google listing, Gmail address in bio, zero photos.	Claimed Google Business Profile with plant photos, official domain email and exact gate location.
2. 5-second trust wall	Website shows stock photos or an empty handshake graphic.	Proof first: real factory shed, raw material bay and monthly capacity above the fold.
3. Machine capability	'We make all kinds of industrial goods' with no technical detail.	Exact machine roster: e.g. VMC 5-axis, 500T press, bed sizes, tolerance limits.
4. In-house QA testing	Quality claims with no lab proof anywhere.	Visible QC: short videos of spectrometer, UTM or hardness testing, plus downloadable ISO/CE certificates.
5. Inbound RFQ route	Generic 'Contact Us' form that goes to an unmonitored inbox.	Fast track: one-tap WhatsApp to a technical person, asking for drawing, grade and quantity.

10-POINT DIGITAL DISCOVERY SELF-AUDIT
